

How might internal and external attributes impact your approaches to a project or project management?

So generally, you need to be able to do what you can with what you have. And you may have a really great idea and want to do something amazing. But it doesn't always work out. And you have to be able to move on and adapt, to be able to do what you can with what you have. For example, you know, you might want to make a set of videos with media production, and you might not be able to interview the person that you want to interview. Generally, you need to be able to do what you can with what you have, because you can't control all of the attributes that you want to focus on for your course. You have to be able to let go of things and really focus on I think the bigger picture. And you know, if something doesn't work, you can do it a different way, or you can find a creative solution.